Emerging growth company

If an emerging growth company, indicate by check mark if the registrant has elected not to use the extended transition period for complying with any new or revised financial accounting standards provided pursuant to Section 13(a) of the Exchange Act.

Item 8.01 Other Events

During the third quarter of 2018, FBL Financial Group, Inc. (the Company) will voluntarily change its accounting policy for low income housing tax credit (LIHTC) investments. The Company will begin using the proportional amortization method of accounting for its LIHTC investments rather than the equity method of accounting. While both methods of accounting are acceptable under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, the Company believes the proportional amortization method is preferable because it more fairly represents the economics of LIHTC investments, which are made primarily for the purpose of receiving tax credits and other tax benefits. In addition, this method aligns to the method typically used by companies within the Company's industry which have similar investments.

While this accounting change impacts the timing of profit and loss recognition, it does not impact the ultimate profitability of the underlying LIHTC investments.

With this filing, selected unaudited financial information is provided to reflect adjustments due to this accounting policy change. This information is attached as Exhibit 99.1.

NOTE 1: As more fully disclosed on page 2 of this report, we are voluntarily changing our accounting for low-income housing tax credit (LIHTC) investments from one acceptable method to another acceptable method under U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP). The accounting change is applied retrospectively to our financial statements. This report summarizes the historical adjustments, which are confined to the consolidated financial statements and the Corporate and Other Segment. The Annuity and Life Insurance Segments were not impacted by this accounting change.

NOTE 2: In addition to net income as determined using GAAP, we have consistently used non-GAAP operating income (a measure of earnings not recognized under GAAP), a financial measure common in the life insurance industry, as a primary economic measure to evaluate our financial performance. Non-GAAP operating income for the periods presented consists of net income adjusted to exclude the initial impact of changes in federal statutory income tax rates and tax laws, realized gains and losses on investments and the change in net unrealized gains and losses on derivatives and equity securities.

We use non-GAAP operating income, in addition to net income, to measure our performance since realized gains and losses on investments and the change in net unrealized gains and losses on derivatives and equities can fluctuate greatly from quarter to quarter. These fluctuations make it difficult to analyze core operating trends. A view of our non-GAAP operating performance without the impact of these items enhances the analysis of our results. We use non-GAAP operating income for goal setting, determining short-term incentive compensation and evaluating performance on a basis comparable to that used by many in the investment community.

NOTE 3: Certain financial information presented herein may not add due to rounding.

Impact of Accounting Change - Summary (Unaudited)

During the third quarter of 2018, FBL Financial Group, Inc (the Company) will voluntarily change its accounting policy for low income housing tax credit (LIHTC) investments. The Company will begin using the proportional method of accounting for its LIHTC investments rather than the equity method of accounting. While both methods of accounting are acceptable under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, the Company believes the proportional amortization method is preferable because it more fairly represents the economics of LIHTC investments, which are made primarily for the purpose of receiving tax credits and other tax benefits. In addition, this method aligns to the method typically used by the companies within the Company's industry which have similar investments. In addition to a change in the timing of the recognition of income on LIHTC investments, there are also differences in how these investments will be reported within our consolidated financial statements, as follows:

- LIHTC investments are now recorded in the "Other asset" line instead of the "Securities and indebtedness of related parties" line on the consolidated balance sheets.
- Income/expense from LIHTC investments is now recorded in the "Income taxes" line instead of the "Equity income" line on the consolidated statements of operations.

The following presents the effect of the change on financial statement line items for prior periods that were retrospectively adjusted:
